Accident. Last Friday afternoon Otto P. Fisher and wife, while out riding, met with a little mirhap that might have terminated with serious results. In passing a team on the Bryan Pike, he turned into the road a little too soon, catching the wheel of the wagon, holding the buggy firm, the horses began jumping and broke the whiffle-trees, pulling him out over the dash-board and about 10 feet into the road, injuring him somewhat about the head, but luckly no bones were broken. Mrs. Fisher escaped uninjured.

numerous to mention.

The fair held by the Henry County Agricultural Society, on their grounds in Harrison township, last week, was not very well attended, on account of the cold and inelement weather. The display made by the exhibitors were creditable, the stock department being exceedingly good and well filled, as was also Floral and Agricultural Halls. Several of the business houses of Napoleon nade excellent exhibits of their wares, and did much towards making the show a sucess. We have not learned what the receipts of the fair were.

Entertainment.

Company F, will give an entertainment at the Rink Opera House next Saturday evening. They have secured the services of Rev. W. O. Butler, a wounded veteran, who brings an instrument which develops those old negatives taken during the war by the government photographer at the time and on the scene of the battles. The exhibition is so realistic, that the wound which proved fatal to the soldier can be plainly seen as he lays where he fell. It is an opportunity of a life-time to spend a whole evening at the front amid those awful and stirring scenes. Admission, 20 cents; children under 12 years of age, 10 cents. Doors open at 7:30, war begins at 8 o'clock.

lusane Woman.

Miss Etta Biggs was brought to Napole Tuesday and lodged in the county jail await-ing transfer to an asylum, she being insane. Miss Biggs has a sad history. She is an orphan, having lost both father and mother in early life. Some seven years age she was engaged to an estimable young man, who had gone West in search of a home and fortune, intending to return and make her his bride, but alas for human proposals. He was not west long before grim death claimed him as his own, and when the sad news was conveyed she became a raving maniac. She was taken to an asylum and shortly afterward was reeased as cured. She has been teaching music for a living since, but her reason has givon way again, and she will for a second time be sent to an asylum for treatment. The unfortunate lady has the sympathies of all, with a hope that her reason may again return to her. How to Manage.

The Ohio state board of agriculture has shown an appreciation of the needs of their farmer friends in not limiting their labors to holding a state fair. That they make the grandest object lesson in agriculture and the mechanic arts held in the United States goes without saying. But an object lesson is best appreciated by those who have been quickened and aroused to the advantages of improved methods. The business of the tiller of the soil of necessity keeps him from contact with the activities outside of his farm lines, and he is apt to be satisfied with the methods of his father and himself, because he is not forced to see and know of better ways. Business men and lawyers are compelled to come in contract with rivals, and sharpened by efforts necessary to keep their place. The farmers, of all other men, need something to induce them to come together to discuss methods and questions bearing on their calling. These farmers' institutes af-Clothier, sells more clothing than any other ford the much-needed opportunity. It is said that last year they were held in about fifty counties of the state, and more than 25,000 persons attended them. In the majority of places it is difficult to find a hall large enough lowest possible figures. He has now on hand to accommodate the farmers and their families that come from miles around.
